

Warwick pumpin' iron

MINERALS explorer Warwick Resources Ltd has identified its largest direct shipping iron ore target to date at its Woggagina project in Western Australia's Pilbara region.

The project contains banded iron formations, with corresponding zones of iron enrichment typically grading between 57 per cent and 63 per cent iron.

The project is 35km south of BHP Billiton's Jimblebar iron ore mine and railway.

"The iron enrichment is similar to the mineralisation at Jimblebar Range where recent drilling confirmed high iron grades and demonstrated bedded iron enrichment at depths of over 70 metres," said Warwick managing director Bruce McQuitty in a statement yesterday.
